This report lacks substance and is therefore of limited value. For example, it is not clear what the relationship is between Hungarians recruited for service in the Belgian armed forces in time of war and the role Hungarian emigres could play in disorders in Hungary in a given situation. It may be pointed out that at least some of the statistical data requested, e.g., the number of Hungarian refugees who went to Belgium after the 1956 revolt (approx. 6,000), is available in published sources.

[II] COLLECTOR'S QUESTIONS TO EVALUATOR
[III] EVALUATOR'S COMMENTS (Use additional sheets as necessary)
The Hungarian desk of OCI cannot evaluate TDCS DB 3/639,966 for the following reasons: (1) The reportorial style is unnecessarily labored, repetitious and confusing. As a result, it is impossible even to determine what the report intends to say. (2) The source of the report is described first as "a Hungarian official in Belgium," and, second, as "the intelligence officer." (3) OCI cannot conceive of any situation in which Hungarian emigres in Belgium could be "mobilized in a given situation dis-regarding the intentions of such people and the question of volunteers" to come to the aid of the regime in Budapest and, yet, that seems to be the underlying idea of the TDCS, at least as we read it. Furthermore, were there to be a general European conflict, it is doubtful that the incumbent Hungarian regime would have time or men or materiel to devote even part of its defensive or offensive efforts to emigre incursions.

This report lacks coherence and is therefore of limited value. It is not clear what the relationship is between the author's experience in the Belgian armed forces in 1940-41 and the role he would play in disorders in Belgium. It is also not clear that at least some of the author's statements are based on the author's own research who went to Belgium in 1940-41. (Source: [Redacted])
